GDPR are the principles of personal data protection that result from the EU "General Data Protection Regulation". Thanks to the new regulations, we all have more control over our data and better protection. It is worth knowing your rights and principles on the basis of which various entities and institutions - including us - can process personal data. The Office of Rail Transport collects your personal data for specific, explicit and legitimate purposes. We process your data legally, reliably and in a transparent manner. Limits the amount of collected personal data to the necessary minimum. We make sure that your data is correct. It stores your personal data in a period no longer than necessary to achieve the objectives. Ensures the integrity and confidentiality of your data. We appointed the Data Protection Officer. We don't process your personal data in an automated way.
